The Twenty-Third Psalm

The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters: He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake...Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over...Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: And I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever...

The Deneves

Al and Maxene (Klinker) Deneve of Tattersholl Circle will celebrate their 65th wedding anniversary June 3. The family will worship together and have a celebration dinner at their daughter's home. They were married June 7, 1936, by the Rev. Leo Miller at his parsonage in Fort Wayne. The Deneves are the parents of Margaret A. Deneve and Joan C. Grossman, both of Fort Wayne. They have four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Al Deneve is retired from farming after 40 years and from Deaton Equipment after 15 years of service. Maxene Deneve is retired from the Sidney School cafeteria and restaurant work. They were introduced by a classmate who invited them to come for an afternoon of games and fellowship. On their first date they attended a church youth service. They are charter members of the North Manchester Missionary Church. Al Deneve has been a trustee, deacon and Sunday School superintendent. Maxine Deneve taught Sunday School and Children's Church for more than 35 years.

Al and Maxene Deneve

AL J. DENEVE, 95, of Fort Wayne, formerly of North Manchester, died Thursday, April 30, 2009, 1:45 a.m., at Coventry Meadows, Fort Wayne. He married Maxene Klinker in 1936; she died in 2002. Surviving are daughters, Mrs. Clifford (Margaret) Clouser of Estero, Fla. and Mrs. Fred (Joan) Grossman of Fort Wayne; one sister; four grandchildren; 12 great-grandchildren; and one great-great-grandchild. Funeral service is 2 p.m. Monday at North Manchester Missionary Church, 806 East State Road 114, North Manchester, with calling one hour prior. Calling also from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at McKee Mortuary, North Manchester. Burial in Oaklawn Cemetery, North Manchester. For those who wish to honor the memory of Al Deneve, memorial contributions may be made to World Partners (Missions Dept. of the Missionary Church, Inc.), PO Box 9127, Fort Wayne, IN 46899. Condolences may be emailed to delaughtermckee.com

JOAN

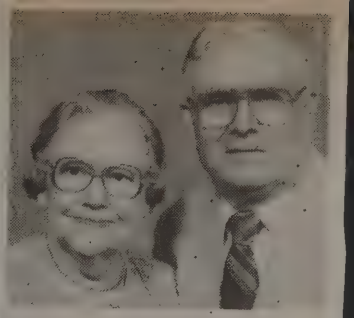
Joan Grossman, School Secretary (this is her official title, but if you are around school much, you will notice that she does much more) has been with FWC since August 1978. Joan is a Ft. Wayne native and has two daughters who are both FWC graduates. Joan's hobbies include reading and sports. She likes the Christian atmosphere, the wonderful people who work at FWC, the families she works with and just being around the students. Joan's vision for FWC is continued growth here and Southwest, and being able to reach out more into the community with a positive Christian influence.



60TH ANNIVERSARY — Mr. and Mrs. Al (Maxine) Deneve, 6440 Fairfield Ave., Fort Wayne, will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary June 7 with a dinner. They were married June 7, 1936, in Fort Wayne. Rev. Leo H. Miller performed the ceremony.

The couple have two daughters, Margaret Clouser and Joan Grossman of Fort Wayne, four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Their main occupation was farming in Kosciusko County. They are charter members of the North Manchester Missionary Church where they have attended for 42 years.

Rhonda and Jeremy Heyerly

Heyerly-Grossman Rhonda Sue Grossman and Jeremy Jay Heyerly were married June 28 in Liberty Mills Church of the Nazarene. Their parents are Fredrick and Joan Grossman of Homestead Road and Samuel and Sharon Heyerly of Yoder. Julie A. Grossman was maid of honor and Patrick Manges was best man. Amy Miller and Gina Stronczek were bridesmaids. Chris Stronczek and Daniel Schuller were groomsmen. The wedding party included Eric Durbin and Ashley Manges. The wedding reception was held at Aboite Missionary Church. The couple took a wedding trip to Cedar City, Utah. They live in Twinsburg, Ohio.

God's Garden

God looked around His garden
And found an empty place
He then looked down upon the earth
And saw your tired face.
He put His arms around you
And lifted you to rest.
God's garden must be beautiful
He always takes the best.
He knew that you were suffering
He knew that you were in pain
He knew that you would never
Get well on earth again.
He saw the road was getting rough,
And the hills were hard to climb.
So he closed your weary eyelids,
And whispered "Peace be thine"
It broke our hearts to lose you
But you didn't go alone
For part of us went with you
The day God called you home.

PILLOW CASES.

Nearly every good housewife judges her neighbor, and the degree of her neighbor's capability as a housekeeper, by her linens and their care. And pillow cases form a large part of these household linens.

The design shown here is pretty and of an uncommon pattern. Though only two panels, or sections, are pictured, the finished case is four panels across. By stenciling the pattern twice you can stamp and outline your case for working. The pattern given is in its actual size. The directions follow:

Buttonhole stitch—Run the outlines of the border design with fine stitches, then pad the center of the space to the desired height with running stitch or chain stitch lengthwise of the space. The covering or button hole stitch should be worked from left to right, holding the thread toward you with the left thumb. A loop is formed which, when drawn up, makes a purled or twisted edge. The stitches should be taken closely and evenly together, at right angles to the padding.

Flat satin stitch—To do the French laid or solid embroidery, pad with stitches taken lengthwise of the space a little inside the stamping lines on the right side of the material and then work over at right angles with stitches laid closely and evenly together.

Eyelet work—For eyelet embroidery first run around the outlines with small stitches, then punch the centers open with a stiletto or cut them out a little with tiny scissors and work over the line of running stitches and the edge with binding on over and over stitches.

Oval eyelets should be cut lengthwise. Stitch over and over through the hole, making the stitches even, and pulling them tightly enough to keep the goods rolled inside the whipping.

When the round eyelet is finished twist the stiletto around in the eyelet from the wrong side, thus making the eyelet raised and round.

The petals should be divided on the center line and worked in two sections for one-third of the length of petals, then for the remaining two-thirds worked across the full width of petals.

The ribbon work and initials work in satin stitch in the same manner as leaves and flower petals.

Camp Stories Contest.

Your son, your brother, your husband, or your sweetheart in the service undoubtedly has told you some amusing incident that has occurred in his camp. Undoubtedly, too, there are ever so many stories originating in camp that are still untold. This contest is especially open to the soldier himself if he has a good camp story to tell. It is open also to every one who has been told a good camp story of actual happening. "The Tribune" will pay $1 for every letter published. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned. Address Camp Stories Editor, Chicago Sunday Tribune.

He Couldn't Salute.

A Negro rookie from Alabama was quite fed up on all military regulations and courtesies during his initial two weeks' period of quarantine. In fact, he had committed to memory so many "don'ts" that he suffered mental indigestion much of the time.

One of these regulations had a peculiar appeal to him and consequently stuck in his memory without any effort on his part to retain it. It was the rule which states that when one is at attention in the presence of an officer and the command rest is given, he is free to assume any position of ease or go about his business without fear of reprimand.

As soon as the quarantine was raised he rushed down to the canteen to stock up with ice cream cones for himself and buddies. Presently he started back to the barracks with a large bouquet of cones radiating from each hand and all went well until he rounded the corner of his barracks; there to his utter bewilderment, he met a battalion commander. He was immediately conscious of his duty, but at the same time well aware that to salute under such conditions would be nothing short of a calamity to his cones.

Walking briskly until he was within a short distance of the officer, he halted, clicked his heels, and stood rigidly at attention until the officer commanded "rest." Immediately he shuffled on to relieve the thirst of his friends, happy at having so easily extricated himself from an unusually precarious position. C. S.

CLASS OF 1937

I wonder how many of you will remember
That morning, back on the eighth of September.
The year was nineteen hundred thirty-three,
A momentous occasion for you and me.

We'd all just returned from a summer vacation,
Ready to fly for a new destination.
Our plane, "Education," was ready for flight,
So, with all hands on board, we sailed out of sight.

The pilots our teachers had laid a straight course,
With "Port Graduation" our ultimate source.
A year had soon passed, and still we flew on;
One fourth of our journey already had gone.

As Sophomores, each day found the going more rough,
With some dropping out, who lacked the right stuff.
But new passengers came to fill up their places,
And soon they, too, became familiar faces.

After refueling our plane at the "Midway Field",
We once more took off as our plane rocked and reeled.
With parties, receptions, and plays to enjoy,
Junior year quickly passed for each girl and boy.

And then the last lap of our journey began,
With each Senior heading for some different land;
With each one following some different career.
That knowledge we now impart to you here:

After leaving the plane, we found Rosetta Ball
Quite busily scrubbing, in a large hotel hall.
"English" was one thing she didn't need there,
For it took "brawn," not "brains," when scrubbing a stair.

Leona Brokamp we now find on the stage,
Where her "appleless" Apple Dance is quite the new rage.
Her motto, it seems, is "An apple a day,"
But the doctors all come—they can't stay away!

Helen Crabill now models the latest new gowns;
From New York to Paris—the talk of all towns.
It's rumored she soon will head for some "Kirk";
(In case you don't know it, that's Scottish for "church.")

Filling stations are still Paul Crabill's delight,
For there you will find him, both day and night.
While his pockets are "filling" with plenty of money,
It quickly is spent by his "strict" little honey.

While Germaine was in school, she found history tough,
In fact, she said, she hated the stuff.
For doctrines and such, she never could go,
Except for the one by that fellow "Monroe".

If you now were to seek out the Dickison pride,
You'd find Meribel still a blushing bride.
All she wants is a place where love-birds can coo,
And prove that three can live cheaper than two!

In a cottage near Convoy sits a pretty old maid.
She once lost in love, so always she's stayed
Here near her lost-love, mid her pots and her pans;
You always may find her, our old friend Fern Franz.

Should you happen to have a connoisseur's taste,
And with the best in the land your table would grace,
Madame Esther would send you rare dishes, quite swell!
(That last line just had to rhyme with Gfell!)

In a quaint, rustic schoolhouse, almost antique,
We find "Schoolmarm Klinker" about ready to speak.
For her lessons in drama she's acquired some renown.
When she's quoting "MacBeth"—she brings the house down!

Young Mr. Lapham—that genial gent—
Is a dashing young man when he's pleasure-bent.
All the gals know him well—they all love his sketchings.
(You know that old line: "Drop in, see my etchings!")

Who'd ever suppose that that prim little Miss—
Janet Leonard—would fall for a gigolo's kiss!
She ended by marrying that no-account Count,
But settled in court for a tidy amount.

If you desire to be the toast of the town,
May we pause to suggest that some day you run down
To Madame Louise's for a facial or pack.
Your own friends won't know you when once you come back.

In a quaint, rustic garden, among the sweet peas,
You will find Velma Mooney—down on her knees,
At work with her orchids—known the world round.
(At the very best functions her flowers abound!)

Should you wander some night to your favorite cafe,
You'd probably hear your many friends say:
"Have you seen the new floor show—the 'Idol of France'?"
And then see Bettijane "going into her dance!"

Should your brief stay on earth some day suddenly end,
You at once would remember an old schoolday friend;
For "Painter and Son" are embalmers supreme.
For day or night service, dial four-0-fifteen.

An old friend has gone in for professional track,
His speed on the boards keeps field houses packed.
You've probably guessed—yes, you're right—Wendell Sheehan!
Just like the best seller, he's "Gone With the Wind."

"Flash!—It is rumored that Queen Anne will wed!"
Each night it's that voice that sends you to bed.
From your radio, nightly, J. Q. sends the news.
She's the feminine Winchell among the "Who's Who's ".

Ralph Rogers, 'tis said, has crowds all at sea
With his violin solo entitled "The Bee".
Each note is so sweet,—each tone is so mellow;
But remember, my friends,—he doesn't sell Jello!

As "Dean of the Diplomats", it is readily seen,
We meet up again with our old friend, Pauline,
Who, quite recently, was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize,
But her husband still sports a pair of black eyes!

If you're lovesick and lonely, then write to "Aunt Jean;"
She'll clear up those troubles and suggest a new scheme
To bring back your hubby and renew martial bliss.—
Who'd ever suppose she'd end up like this!

If, by chance, you're attempting to slightly reduce,
And you've tried eating salads, and drinking fruit juice,
Then see Lady Margaret, she'll suggest a new diet;
She is sure it will help you—if only you'll try it.

To Webster and Witte top honors must go
For entering a field where few women go.
They're attorneys-at-law; they've won every case,
But how could they lose, with men every place!

And so, dear children, we have now reached the end,
In discussing the future of each classmate and friend,
The things we have said—we hope no one will resent,
And take all in the manner in which it was meant.

Our last days at Monroeville are fast flitting by,
And it's quite sad, indeed, both for you and for I,
When the day rolls around and we Seniors must go;
But bravely we smile and say "Cheerio!"

Written by Louis J. Culp,
Assisted by Jean Strickler and Meribel Dickison.

Teacher (during written English test)—Write a sentence with the word, "analysis" in it.

Pupil's Exam Paper— The teacher told us to look up the word "analysis" in the dictionary.

CLASS HISTORY

By Eileen Witte and Ferne Franz

The year is 1933. It is a lovely September morning. We see a bright, shiny new milk truck starting down the road. The driver, Miss. Brown, is starting her year's "Success" route with a load of twenty nine cans of "fresh" milk. Ah! She's stopping at a house down the road. Let's hurry down there and see what there is to see. This must be the last stop.

Oh! Look! There are names on the lids of the cans! There's Rosetta Ball, Jack Beery, Ross Coonrad, Helen Crabill, Paul Crabill, Germaine DeClercq, Gordon Emrich, Ferne Franz, Esther Gfell, Victor Grove, Bonnie Heyman, Helen Klinker, Francis Lapham, Seth Marquart, Velma Mooney, Mary Naylor, Betty O'Shaughnessey, Paul Painter, Joan Quinlan, Ralph Rogers, Lawrence Roth, Grace Salway, Mabel Savieo, Wendell Sheehan, Helen Shie, Pauline Spaulding, Margaret Van Buskirk, and Mable Webster. Well, well! Who's that biggest can over there? Oh! I see—Louise Maddox!

Oh! Oh! Here comes Miss. Brown, carrying another milk can. Whose name is on it? It says, Eileen Witte. Let's hang on, and see what happens. Here we go.

Whoa! That can fell off! Who was it? Oh, yes! Victor Groves! Well, I guess it can't be helped! My! There goes two more! and another! That was Mary Naylor, Lawrence Roth, and Helen Shie.

Hang on! We're stopping! They're taking one can off. That's Gordon Emrich. Now they're transferring the others to another truck. Come on, let's go!

Who's the driver? Why, it's Gladys Klopfenstein! The "Big Can" seems to be Joan Quinlan now. Guess there were already three cans in this truck—Maxine Emenhiser, Dorothy Sipe, and Dale Hawkins. That makes twenty-eight cans altogether.

Whoops! Those cans at the back are falling off! They are Dorothy Sipe, Maxine Emenhiser, Mabel Savieo, and Jack Berry. They are taking Velma Mooney off now.

What now? Oh! They're transferring again. Who's the new driver? Is it—yes it's Mr. Bush! And Joan is still the "Biggest can." Who are those cans being put on the truck? They're Janet Leonard and Gwen Duane.

What are we stopping for now? Another milk can? That's Meribel Dickison! Well, here we go again. Now we've stopped. They're leaving Gwen Duane off here. And they're changing drivers, too. Who's driving now? It's a young red head. I believe—yes, it's Mildred Y. Miller. They're starting up again. Oops! They started too soon, for Grace Salway and Seth Marquart dropped out. Now—another stop. We're picking up John Williams. Twenty four now.

Well, this truck has run its course, and they are changing the cans again, to another truck, driven by Sammy Martin. Jean Strickler, Leona Brokamp, and Velma Mooney are being put on the truck. We notice that Helen Klinker is the "Biggest Can" this year. We travel on, our trip almost finished. There goes another can off the deep end. That was Bonnie Heyman. Now, they have stopped again. They are letting off John Williams. Here we go, on the last lap of our journey. Well, all out! We've reached the end of our route—the dairy. Success. (You know, "Success comes in cans—I can, you can, we can!")

We, the Senior Class of Monroeville High School, in the City of Monroeville, State of Indiana, being of sound mind and memory, do make, publish, and declare this last will and testament, in the manner and form as follows:

I, Rosetta Ball, will my cheery smile that won the love of Miss. Bower to Nellie Anderson. May she always use Colgate's

I, Paul Crabill, will my big feet to Dick (Mud) Clay, so that in future years he will not take so many steps in basketball.

I, Helen Crabill, will my ability to sing "Sweet Violets" to Elizabeth Patterson, so that she may become a prima donna.

I, Germaine DeClercq, will my good Academic Health grades to Goldie Carpenter, so that she may win a scholarship with them.

I, Ferne Franz, will my rosy cheeks and vampy eyes to Betty Crozier.

I, Esther Gfell, will my reckless and wild ways to Betty Bower, so that in the future she will not be so timid.

I, Helen Klinker, will my grinning facial expression to Audrey Oberley.

I, Francis Lapham, will my artistic ability to Lawrence O'Shaughnessey so that he can draw pretty pictures for a pastime and not have to pay so much money on overdue library books.

I, Betty O'Shaughnessey, will my charm (that indefinable quality) and my glamour to Dorothy Marquardt so that she may keep the faculty amused and intrigued during the coming year.

I, Paul Painter, will my skill as a basketball player to Marvin Gilbert.

I, Joan Quinlan, will my inferiority complex to Leola Hart.

I, Pauline Spaulding, will my congeniality and otherwise friendly attitude to Betty Beery.

I, Margaret Van Buskirk, will my ability to vamp farmer lads to Berniece Laudahn.

I, Mabel Webster, will my blonde beauty to Ruth Johnson.

I, Eileen Witte, will my love for hospitals and operations to Dorothy Hawkins.

I, Leona Brokamp, will my kicking hoofs and swaying movements to Phyllis Myers.

I, Louise Maddox, will my platinum blonde hair to Doris Morgan.

I, Velma Mooney, will my deep baritone voice to Kate Murfield, so that she may be heard.

I, Jean Strickler, will my pleasant disposition to Berniece Spurgeon.

I, Janet Leonard, will my love for Shakespeare to Virginia Kelly.

I, Marybelle Dickison, will my Venus shape to Goldie Franz.

I, Ralph Rogers, will my dashing personality to Bill Leonard.

I, Wendell Sheehan, will my ways that make me a woman slayer (with some women) to Arthur Parnin.

We, the aforesaid makers of this will, and also the breakers of many teachers' wills, being capable of making this final testament, as attested by the grades of Paul Painter, do hereby set our hands and the great seal of the kingdom of the M. H. S. office to it as our last act and wish.

CLASS PROPHECY

By Ferne Franz and Eileen Witte

Many years after 1937 as I gaze into the crystal ball I see---

Rosetta Ball, as president of "Ball's Old Maids College," established for the purpose of informing those "fems" of the higher intellect how to attain and retain the happy state of "Spinsterhood."

Helen Crabill, Van Kirk, Rockefeller, Insull, Du Pont, the gay divorcee of the 1950's, pursuing her latest flame, Haile Salassie II of Ethiopia.

Paul Crabill, the second Wip Van Rinkle, stealing off to Flat Rock with a fishing pole over his back trying to escape Jeanie's scowls and the bawling and babbling of the Crabill "quins" and "sextuplets."

Madame Germaine De Clercq instructing students of the De Clercq School of Beauty Culture on how to aid the training of "Beau Brummel" moustaches which said things can be attained either with or without the use of beauty aids.

Leona Brokamp tapping her way to fame on gay Broadway.

Marybelle Dickison, French designer announcing her marriage to Baron L. Jerome Culp of London, England.

Ferne Franz, Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera, starring in her latest success "The Last Rose of Summer."

Esther Gfell, famous as the first stylist of women's clothes in America, has introduced her latest creation, a dress made of cellophane, which she has very properly named "The Seymore."

Louise Maddox, now mistress of the Hon. Charles Sipe's County Home of Dixon, Ohio, announcing to the countryside that there will be a good tomato crop this year.

Smoky Joan Quinlan, the flying ace dashing out to Gold Coast, Chicago, to cover the largest social event of the season, where Mrs. Margaret Van Buskirk Hursh will entertain the Duke of Windsor and Wally Simpson. It is rumored that Mrs. Hursh is playing cupid between the reporter, Miss. Quinlan, and the Duke, as Wally seems to be loosing her charms.

Paul Painter, who coaches the Tillman's Tigers, arriving at Tillman with the State Champs. May they ever keep up their good work!

An old fashioned school marm, with horn rimmed spectacles and a knot on the back of her head. She's the English instructor in Monroeville High. Who is she? None other than Miss. Helen Cora Klinker.

Francis Lapham, ace cartoonist of the present, has obtained a life long position on the staff of New York Times.

Eileen Witte, model at Madame Du Barry's well known French dress shop in New York City.

Velma Mooney, nurse of Monroeville Medical Center, supervising the care of the septuplets recently born to Mrs. Betty O'Shaughnessy Crosdale.

Pauline Spaulding, saxophonist in Woolworth's Tin Pan Band, announcing her engagement and coming marriage to the Pan American gigolo, Wendell Sheehan.

Ralph Rogers, young farmer, who has just finished a term as Senator from Indiana, is now running for president. We are looking forward to another administration such as Lincoln gave us. (Ralph is a sixth cousin to "Abe".)

Janet Leonard has just finished her first edition of the Leonard Dictionary which has been recognized as the standard dictionary.

Mable Webster as a popular feminine orchestra leader whose orchestra is appearing in a late film production, "Whirligig."

Each member of the Class of 1937 is remarkable in his own way, and 'tis not we who can prophesy what will be their achievements, their renown in the years to come.

CLASS PLAYS HAVE BEEN VERY SUCCESSFUL

Our class has presented two successful plays, namely: "And Mary Did" and "Where's Grandma?".

"And Mary Did" as you all remember was our Junior play which was presented by our class March 19 20, 1936. It proved to be a great success and much of the credit goes to Miss. G. M. Klopfenstein, formerly a teacher in our High School, who directed it so well.

Cast of Characters

Mary Sterling.....Pauline Spaulding
Laurence Grey.....Wendell Sheehan
Mrs. Sterling.....Marybelle Dickison
Dressa Rand.....Helen Crabill
Daniel Grey.....Robert Kreager
Edith Smith.....Margaret VanBuskirk
Willie Sterling.....Paul Crabill
Betty Sterling.....Joan Quinlan
(Miss) O. G. Whittaker.....Louise Maddox
Matilda.....Helen Klinker
Henry.....Ralph Rogers

Act 1: The Sterlings' living room, late spring.
Act 2: Late Summer.
Act 3: Late fall.
Time: Present.
Place: Marysvale, Mass.
Playing Time: Approximately two hours.
Costumes: Modern throughout.

Synopsis

The character plot will best describe the play. Mary Sterling, a modern "Joan of Arc;" Laurence Grey a modern "Lancelot;" Mrs. Sterling, an old-fashioned mother; Dressa Rand, the girl that men forget (?); Daniel Grey, father of Laurence and ambitious as to his matrimonial and political career; Edith Smith, Mary's chum, whose chief aim is "Laff off" the other fifty pounds; "Willie Sterling and Betty Sterling, Mary's brother and sister—the dear little angels—theirs is the adolescent age, between fourteen and seventeen; (Miss) O. G. Whittaker, a masculine monument to feminine freedom; Matilda, who helps Mrs. Sterling keep the little angels wings clean, and also the house once in a while; Henry, supposed to be Daniel Grey's gardener, but who spends most of his time in Matilda's kitchen; and the Gentleman from Georgia.

Romance, politics, social climbing and fun in large measure, makes this play a high class one.

Our Senior Play, entitled "Where's Grandma?" presented March 12 13, 1937 was also a great success. Mr. Martin, our class sponsor, worked with us faithfully during the whole year and also did a fine job in directing the play which we appreciated very much.

Cast of Characters

Grandma.....Helen Klinker
Gretchen Blake.....Pauline Spaulding
Bob Blake.....Wendell Sheehan
Jack Worley.....Paul Crabill
Lucy King.....Eileen Witte
Arline Truesdale.....Jean Strickler
Carol Worley.....Helen Crabill
Midnight.....Ralph Rogers
Dahlia.....Betty O'Shaughnessey

Act 1. Early spring at the Worley's home.
Act 2: Several weeks later.
Act 3: The next day.
Time: Present.
Place: Living room of the Worley's home.
Playing time: Approximately two hours.

Synopsis

The character plot will best describe the play. Grandma, an old lady who first of all wants to be young; and, second of all, is quite content to be "her own age;" Gretchen Blake a young wife; Bob Blake, her brand new husband; Jack Worley, Gretchen's brother; Lucy King, Jack's sweetheart; Arline Truesdale, the girl Gretchen wants her brother to mary; Carol Worley, Gretchen's sister, who has a mind and opinion of her own; Midnight, a "chocolate brown" houseman who enjoys his uniform very greatly; Dahlia, wife of Midnight, "high yaller" and a determined female: A man's voice, heard off stage.

Much of the success of our play goes to the committees who did their work very well both years.

We wish to take this opportunity of thanking Mr. John Lamb, owner of the Lamb Furniture Store at Payne, Ohio, for allowing us the privilege of using the lovely living room suite during the presentation of our class play "Where's Grandma?" You can't go wrong if you buy your furniture from Mr. Lamb.

PAINTER AND SHEEHAN VALUABLE TO CUBS

By Betty O'Shaughnessey

Paul Painter and Wendell Sheehan, two Senior boys, were valuable material to the M. H. S. basketball squad. Painter served for four years on the first team, while Sheehan has two years to his credit.

Painter, referred to by many fans as an "ace", will be a great loss to the team this coming season. He was one of the three high point men.

Although the boys have received the sweaters which signify that their high-school basketball days are over, we are sure that their records will long be remembered. We, as Seniors, are very proud to acknowledge these boys as our classmates.

SENIOR GIRLS WIN TOURNAMENT TWO YEARS

Each and every player was a valuable asset to the winning of the games which helped the Senior girls to win the inter class tournament for two years.

The line-up for the first six was as follows: Spaulding and Franz, forwards, O'Shaughnessey, center, Quinlan and Maddox, guards, and Van Buskirk, side-center.

Each of these girls was interviewed for the purpose of giving you an insight into (?) something, anyhow.

Ferne Franz, a tall girl of the brownette type, says she is glad her school days are about over and that her next serious step will be matrimony, but she hopes it does not prove to be as distasteful as school.

Pauline Spaulding was given a quiz on what her plans for the future are. From what we gather, Miss. Spaulding's plans are to enter Purdue in the fall and major in music.

Louise Maddox, a girl with red hair, says that her chief ambition is to become a Physical Education teacher and by becoming such, make the American girls of tomorrow better American women.

Betty O'Shaughnessey, our tall center, appears sophisticated, but underneath the veneer is really a rather nice gal. Betty has a great likeness for children and because of this fact, her future plans include that of becoming a grade teacher.

Margaret Van Buskirk proved to be a "mama's" girl during our interview. Although she is a tough side-center, her toughness disappears at times, and Maggie is ready to agree with anything her opponent may say. Maggie plans to stay at home with Mama until the right man comes along. I hope, hope, hope.

Now, last but not least, we interviewed Joan Quinlan. She wants to travel. Her pet aversions are blondes. If she furthers her education, she will undoubtedly major in Journalism.

Other girls who played on the team at some time during their high school career are Eileen Witte, Helen Crabill, Rosetta Ball, and Germaine DeClercq. These girls were good players, and the regular players were sorry to have them leave the team.

WHEN SHOULD A STUDENT BE GRADUATED?

By Janet Leonard

It is customary to graduate a student who has, in some way or another, acquired thirty-two credits throughout his or her high school course. Take notice of the fact that I say "in some way or another," because it is sadly true that, among the students who graduate from high school each spring, there are many who are no different, generally speaking, from the hordes who have left school at some time, for a number of reasons, during the high school period.

Let us take, first, the student whose parent or parents is in some way associated with the administration of the high school. If Johnnie or Susie, whatever the case may be, does not receive all A's whether or not he or she deserves them, this or that teacher is bound to pay dearly, or else—

The next student of importance along this line is the "billy goat". It is he or she who caters to the teacher's whims, fancies—flattering, and almost annoying every teacher with whom he or she may come in contact. And teacher dear feels that, out of pity, if for no other reason, he or she dares give no lower grade to Minnie than a B, for has not Minnie done this, that and the other thing for him or her?

Seldom understood is the student who is willing just to "get by". It charm (that indefinable quality) and my glamour to Dorothy Marquardt so that she may keep the faculty amused and intrigued during the coming year.

I, Paul Painter, will my skill as a basketball player to Marvin Gilbert.
I, Joan Quinlan, will my inferiority complex to Leola Hart.

I, Pauline Spaulding, will my congeniality and otherwise friendly attitude to Betty Beery.
I, Margaret Van Buskirk, will my ability to vamp farmer lads to Berniece Laudahn.

I, Mabel Webster, will my blonde beauty to Ruth Johnson.
I, Eileen Witte, will my love for hospitals and operations to Dorothy Hawkins.
I, Leona Brokamp, will my kicking hoofs and swaying movements to Phyllis Myers.
I, Louise Maddox, will my platinum blonde hair to Doris Morgan.
I, Velma Mooney, will my deep baritone voice to Kate Murfield, so that she may be heard.
I, Jean Strickler, will my pleasant disposition to Berniece Spurgeon.
I, Janet Leonard, will my love for Shakespeare to Virginia Kelly.
I, Marybelle Dickison, will my Venus shape to Goldie Franz.
I, Ralph Rogers, will my dashing personality to Bill Leonard.
I, Wendell Sheehan, will my ways that make me a woman slayer (with some women) to Arthur Parnin.

We, the aforesaid makers of this will, and also the breakers of many teachers' wills, being capable of making this final testament, as attested by the grades of Paul Painter, do hereby set our hands and the great seal of the kingdom of the M. H. S. office to it as our last act and wish.

CLASS PROPHECY

By Ferne Franz and Eileen Witte

Many years after 1937 as I gaze into the crystal ball I see---

Rosetta Ball, as president of "Ball's Old Maids College," established for the purpose of informing those "fems" of the higher intellect how to attain and retain the happy state of "Spinsterhood."

Helen Crabill, Van Kirk, Rockefeller, Insull, Du Pont, the gay divorcee of the 1950's, pursuing her latest flame, Haile Salassie II of Ethiopia.

Paul Crabill, the second Wip Van Rinkle, stealing off to Flat Rock with a fishing pole over his back trying to escape Jeanie's scowls and the bawling and babbling of the Crabill "quins" and "sextuplets."

Madame Germaine De Clercq instructing students of the De Clercq School of Beauty Culture on how to aid the training of "Beau Brummel" moustaches which said things can be attained either with or without the use of beauty aids.

Leona Brokamp tapping her way to fame on gay Broadway.

Marybelle Dickison, French designer announcing her marriage to Baron L. Jerome Culp of London, England.

Ferne Franz, Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera, starring in her latest success "The Last Rose of Summer."

Esther Gfell, famous as the first stylist of women's clothes in America, has introduced her latest creation, a dress made of cellophane, which she has very properly named "The Seymore."

* * *

Louise Maddox, now mistress of the Hon. Charles Sipe's County Home of Dixon, Ohio, announcing to the countryside that there will be a good tomato crop this year.

Smoky Joan Quinlan, the flying ace dashing out to Gold Coast, Chicago, to cover the largest social event of the season, where Mrs. Margaret Van Buskirk Hursh will entertain the Duke of Windsor and Wally Simpson. It is rumored that Mrs. Hursh is playing cupid between the reporter, Miss. Quinlan, and the Duke, as Wally seems to be loosing her charms.

Paul Painter, who coaches the Tillman's Tigers, arriving at Tillman with the State Champs. May they ever keep up their good work!

* * *

An old fashioned school marm, with horn rimmed spectacles and a knot on the back of her head. She's the English instructor in Monroeville High. Who is she? None other than Miss. Helen Cora Klinker.

Francis Lapham, ace cartoonist of the present, has obtained a life long position on the staff of New York Times.

Eileen Witte, model at Madame Du Barry's well known French dress shop in New York City.

* * *

Velma Mooney, nurse of Monroeville Medical Center, supervising the care of the septuplets recently born to Mrs. Betty O'Shaughnessy Crosdale.

Pauline Spaulding, saxophonist in Woolworth's Tin Pan Band, announcing her engagement and coming marriage to the Pan American gigolo, Wendell Sheehan.

Ralph Rogers, young farmer, who has just finished a term as Senator from Indiana, is now running for president. We are looking forward to another administration such as Lincoln gave us. (Ralph is a sixth cousin to "Abe".)

* * *

Janet Leonard has just finished her first edition of the Leonard Dictionary which has been recognized as the standard dictionary.

Mable Webster as a popular feminine orchestra leader whose orchestra is appearing in a late film production, "Whirligig."

* * *

Each member of the Class of 1937 is remarkable in his own way, and 'tis not we who can prophesy what will be their achievements, their renown in the years to come.

CLASS PLAYS HAVE BEEN VERY SUCCESSFUL

Our class has presented two successful plays, namely: "And Mary Did" and "Where's Grandma?".

"And Mary Did" as you all remember was our Junior play which was presented by our class March 19 20, 1936. It proved to be a great success and much of the credit goes to Miss. G. M. Klopfenstein, formerly a teacher in our High School, who directed it so well.

Cast of Characters

Mary Sterling.....Pauline Spaulding
Laurence Grey.....Wendell Sheehan
Mrs. Sterling.....Marybelle Dickison
Dressa Rand.....Helen Crabill
Daniel Grey.....Robert Kreager
Edith Smith.....Margaret VanBuskirk
Willie Sterling.....Paul Crabill
Betty Sterling.....Joan Quinlan
(Miss) O. G. Whittaker.....Louise Maddox
Matilda.....Helen Klinker
Henry.....Ralph Rogers

Act 1: The Sterlings' living room, late spring.
Act 2: Late Summer.
Act 3: Late fall.
Time: Present.
Place: Marysvale, Mass.
Playing Time: Approximately two hours.
Costumes: Modern throughout.

Synopsis

The character plot will best describe the play. Mary Sterling, a modern "Joan of Arc;" Laurence Grey a modern "Lancelot;" Mrs. Sterling, an old-fashioned mother; Dressa Rand, the girl that men forget (?); Daniel Grey, father of Laurence and ambitious as to his matrimonial and political career; Edith Smith, Mary's chum, whose chief aim is "Laff off" the other fifty pounds; "Willie Sterling and Betty Sterling, Mary's brother and sister—the dear little angels —theirs is the adolescent age, between fourteen and seventeen; (Miss) O. G. Whittaker, a masculine monument to feminine freedom; Matilda, who helps Mrs. Sterling keep the little angels wings clean, and also the house once in a while; Henry, supposed to be Daniel Grey's gardener, but who spends most of his time in Matilda's kitchen; and the Gentleman from Georgia.

Romance, politics, social climbing and fun in large measure, makes this play a high class one.

Our Senior Play, entitled "Where's Grandma?" presented March 12 13, 1937 was also a great success. Mr. Martin, our class sponsor, worked with us faithfully during the whole year and also did a fine job in directing the play which we appreciated very much.

Cast of Characters

Grandma.....Helen Klinker
Gretchen Blake.....Pauline Spaulding
Bob Blake.....Wendell Sheehan
Jack Worley.....Paul Crabill
Lucy King.....Eileen Witte
Arline Truesdale.....Jean Strickler
Carol Worley.....Helen Crabill

Act 1. Early spring at the Worley's home.
Act 2: Several weeks later.
Act 3: The next day.
Time: Present.
Place: Living room of the Worley's home.
Playing time: Approximately two hours.

Synopsis

The character plot will best describe the play. Grandma, an old lady who first of all wants to be young; and, second of all, is quite content to be "her own age;" Gretchen Blake a young wife; Bob Blake, her brand new husband; Jack Worley, Gretchen's brother; Lucy King, Jack's sweetheart; Arline Truesdale, the girl Gretchen wants her brother to mary; Carol Worley, Gretchen's sister, who has a mind and opinion of her own; Midnight, a "chocolate brown" housman who enjoys his uniform very greatly; Dahlia, wife of Midnight, "high yaller" and a determined female: A man's voice, heard off stage.

Much of the success of our play goes to the committees who did their work very well both years.

We wish to take this opportunity of thanking Mr. John Lamb, owner of the Lamb Furniture Store at Payne, Ohio, for allowing us the privilege of using the lovely living room suite during the presentation of our class play "Where's Grandma?" You can't go wrong if you buy your furniture from Mr. Lamb.

is this student who would, at a sign of encouragement from the teacher or the ones at home, develop into a good student.

In none of the three cases which I have just cited is the student ready to graduate from high school.

Still—when should a student be graduated?

When enrolling a girl or boy in high school, it is not expected of him or her by anyone that he or she should remember everything learned from the beginning of Freshman year to the end of Senior year; still, this student, at the end of each course of study, should have at least a "bird's eye" view of the subject just completed. This is not too much to expect of an average pupil.

A MEMORABLE TRIP

By Pauline Spaulding

On March 24, 1937, the Senior Class of Monroeville High School, accompanied by Trustee John D. Adams and by their sponsor, George Martin, visited the County Children's Home, the County Infirmary, and the Hoff Brau Brewery.

The first stop was made at the Orphanage. We, the Seniors, saw the dormitories of both the girls and the boys, the kitchen, the schoolrooms the playrooms, and the gymnasium, but were not permitted to go through the infirmary or the nursery.

Those children of the orphanage who are in the grade school have classes at the Home, but the high school pupils are sent into Fort Wayne.

From the Home, we went to the County Infirmary, and here we were shown the dormitories of both the men and the women, the kitchens, the hospital, the dining rooms, the supply room, and the reception room. Too, we were fortunate enough to see the inmates entering their dining rooms, and then to see them seated at the tables.

The class enjoyed dinner at the Wayne Hotel Restaurant, arrangements for which were made by the manager of the Miracle Manufacturing Company.

After dinner, we had time enough to visit only the Hoff-brau Brewery. Our guide ably explained the different processes used in the making of beer, and we were taken through each of the different houses where the beer is made and bottled.

Thence, the homeward journey began; by 3:15 the class had arrived at the schoolhouse, determined to make another such journey soon. (And to take in a movie at the same time.)

VALEDICTORIAN AND SALUTATORIAN NAMED

A pupil must be enrolled in the same school for the entire four years to receive the honor of being either salutatorian or valedictorian.

The following averages were obtained from the office at the end of the first semester:

Janet Leonard, 95.36%
Helen Klinker, 94.93%
Eileen Witte, 94.35%

IDLE CHATTER

By Joan Quinlan

A wise old owl sat in an oak.
The more he heard, the less he spoke;
The less he spoke, the more he heard
Why can't we all be like this wise old bird?

But as we're not like this wise old bird, just listen to this! Have you heard it yet, folks?

Flash! That Germaine DeClercq was seen walking unescorted. Yes, just think of it, folks, walking alone Monday night (Nigger night) down Barnhardt Street, the residential section of Monroeville. It was nine o'clock. It is believed by my next-door neighbor and myself that earlier in the evening she may have had a boy friend. Of course, any respectable Monroeville boy wouldn't be out with a girl at nine o'clock. Tch, tch—folks, what is this world coming to? Girls out at nine o'clock in the evening!

This is a GOOD one, people. Betty O'Shaughnessey, a tall awkward, butter fingered creature, sometimes called a typical modern miss., has a new heart throb. Her latest walking thrill is Earl Gibson (Cannibal). Betty's love was first aroused when Cannibal purchased a Model-T Ford. Betty is of the adventurous type, and to see this daring, care-free gentleman jumping down the avenue at Monroeville was too much for her. She especially likes his technique at steering. He's the independent type who demands his half of the road out of the middle, or, better yet, on the left side. He's also a tricky little guy. When approaching a corner, he will put on more gas and he delights in seeing how close he can come to people without hitting them—yeah, girls, he slays you with his driving!

Mabel Webster delights in gaining attention, especially at "Pop's Place" a very popular place for some people. It is stated that Miss. Webster became such a center of attraction that it took a couple noble knights to rescue her. The days of chivalry are not over, girls. Just go to "Pop's Place."

Helen Klinker, a very bright (yes, she's red-headed) and intelligent girl whose aim is to represent M. H. S. at Ball State next fall, and then to represent Ball State at some institution in which she can pound a tattoo on education-bent children, claims that her love-affair days are over. All you handsome lads have a certain sophomore boy to blame for this. Helen's trust in the male sex was permanently destroyed when this lothario took her to a movie on dime night, and then made her walk home alone. Oh! What a romance there might have been, but as dear old John Greenleaf Whittier said:

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen
the saddest are these, "It might have been!"

Millicent Gertrude Eva Van Buskirk, commonly called "Maggie"—her chief ambition is to change the calender so that leap year will come every year. Maggie has done her best to gain the attention of a certain paragon. Being a person of the sentimental type, she looks wistfully at a scare-crow and murmurs, "Oh, darling, put your arms around me and tell me you love me." Then adding a little melodrama, she said, "But (sob! sob!) if there is someone else, I shall be noble and sacrifice you. You shall have your heart's choice, and I shall nurse my secret sorrow." Burp! Where's my Tums?

Wendell Sheehan, a man about school, when no other men are here, seems to be quite a Romeo at Decatur, Indiana. Of course, many people think Wendell writes the letters of which he is the recipient, and that he mails them from Decatur. Well, anyway, if he does, we must say that he knows the adjectives used to describe nice men.

Louise Maddox, who spends most of her spare time at the City Meat Market, was seen carrying a string of weiners around. It is rumored that the proprietor is putting everything away from now on, especially when he hears the clank clank of Louise's clod-hoppers.

Paul Painter, who is of the "slow but sure" type, in everything but driving a car and in basketball, seems to be doing all his wooing with "Shanks' mules". The inhabitants of our fair village are very grateful for this, as Paul seems to have had the fair sex hypnotized, hysterical, and almost murdered with his fast driving for the past few years.

Meribel Dickison, who wears number 9 shoes, seems to be Pauline Spaulding's inspiration. You know, all her poems start out with, "By the sounds from the door that is open, I hear the patter of little feet." Clump! Clump! Here comes Marybelle.

Lola Salway appears very sad as Commencement day draws near, for that will mean farewell to Ralph. The tall dark and handsome gentleman whose heart no Senior female could move! Did those Freshies show us!

Jean Strickler, a one man's woman, certainly knows what to do and how to do it. There is only one way to escape, Paul, and that's to marry her.

Mr. Berl B. Blauvelt, our history instructor, has requested that we students check our colds before entering his history class. Who would think that our country was founded on freedom of—, etc.?

Ferne Franz, who is engaged and will become Mrs. Francis Lapham sometime after graduation, says her biggest desire is to bring the United States fame by having quints. If fortune should smile on Ferne and bless her with such, she has selected the following names: Opal, Mildred, Leora, Gladys, and Lora. Yes folks, all Ferne's favorite teachers' names. If they should be boys, they will be christened: Berl, Ervin, Jacob, George, and Maurice.

Miss. Helen Crabill, a well known young lady (?) who thinks she possesses, that most valuable and rare characteristic, "it", plans on selling it to the United States government to back paper money with in the future. Rah! Yea! Prosperity is sure to come now!

Well, folks, the night oil is rapidly diminishing. Soon the flame will flicker, and then slowly die out. Therefore, this column must end, but may its memories linger on.

After reading this, I hope you have gathered that:

There's so much good in the worst of us
And so much bad in the best of us
That it belittles all of us
To talk about the rest of us.

THANK YOU AND GOOD-BYE

By Joan Quinlan

Four years of endeavor, of toil and study "amid the dust of books" in pursuit of knowledge has brought us to this hour, not only with the satisfaction that we have completed the prescribed course of study, but also that these years have developed friendships through pleasant associations; friendships which shall endure for time and eternity; friendships of classmates and members of the High School. Friendships of teachers and parents. What knowledge we have acquired shall at all times be surrounded with sincere appreciation, but these friendships shall be treasured as the most beautiful pictures in the memory of a life time.

We are cognizant of the fact that we are beneficiaries of a kind and generous public for the support of our school. So to the patron tax-payers of this community we give our grateful thanks, and promise that their investment will not have been made in vain, but that we shall strive to live and act in such a manner, that the communities where we shall cast our lots shall receive from us benefits even in excess of the amount of money required to bring us to this Commencement Exercise.

To all our teachers, who have been so faithful to our higher instincts, who have worked with the spirits of missionaries, so that we might elevate ourselves in the scale of society, and to a greater scale of usefulness in our various vocations, we can no more than say your efforts are like letters on tablets of steel: they are fixed so everlastingly and indelibly in our lives. We know that occasions have risen which would bear evidence that your good efforts were lost on the desert air, but not so, for at this moment we are so much a part of you that a "good-bye" is like saying it to ourselves; but, nevertheless, to you, our teachers we bid farewell and may you some day receive your just reward.

To our parents who have made the greatest sacrifices for us, we know that it is absolutely outside the limits of the possible to repay you for your perfect interest in our welfare and for the labour and sacrifices made for us. We wish to thank you and promise that we shall ever labor with an eye single to the achievement of your dreams.

This is perhaps both the most opportune and inopportune moment in our school life. For four years our paths have run parallel and toward the goal which we will have reached by April 27. We look out upon the world with our hearts and minds filled with high ideals and aims. Our success in the fulfillment of these aims will be based upon our own initiative, talent and ambition.

And now, just before closing, may I have the pleasure of wishing my fellow classmates all the success and luck they may obtain in their chosen fields or vocations?

When your nose itches, that's a sign that company is coming, but when your head itches it's a sign that company has arrived.

It was nine o'clock. It is believed by my next-door neighbor and myself that earlier in the evening she may have had a boy friend. Of course, any respectable Monroeville boy wouldn't be out with a girl at nine o'clock. Tch, tch—folks, what is this world coming to? Girls out at nine o'clock in the evening!

This is a GOOD one, people. Betty O'Shaughnessey, a tall awkward, butter fingered creature, sometimes called a typical modern miss., has a new heart throb. Her latest walking thrill is Earl Gibson (Cannibal). Betty's love was first aroused when Cannibal purchased a Model-T Ford. Betty is of the adventurous type, and to see this daring, care-free gentleman jumping down the avenue at Monroeville was too much for her. She especially likes his technique at steering. He's the independent type who demands his half of the road out of the middle, or, better yet, on the left side. He's also a tricky little guy. When approaching a corner, he will put on more gas and he delights in seeing how close he can come to people without hitting them—yeah, girls, he slays you with his driving!

Mabel Webster delights in gaining attention, especially at "Pop's Place" a very popular place for some people. It is stated that Miss. Webster became such a center of attraction that it took a couple noble knights to rescue her. The days of chivalry are not over, girls. Just go to "Pop's Place."

Helen Klinker, a very bright (yes, she's red-headed) and intelligent girl whose aim is to represent M. H. S. at Ball State next fall, and then to represent Ball State at some institution in which she can pound a tattoo on education-bent children, claims that her love-affair days are over. All you handsome lads have a certain sophomore boy to blame for this. Helen's trust in the male sex was permanently destroyed when this lothario took her to a movie on dime night, and then made her walk home alone. Oh! What a romance there might have been, but as dear old John Greenleaf Whittier said:

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen the saddest are these, "It might have been!"

Millicent Gertrude Eva Van Buskirk, commonly called "Maggie"—her chief ambition is to change the calender so that leap year will come every year. Maggie has done her best to gain the attention of a certain paragon. Being a person of the sentimental type, she looks wistfully at a scare-crow and murmurs, "Oh, darling, put your arms around me and tell me you love me." Then adding a little melodrama, she said, "But (sob! sob!) if there is someone else, I shall be noble and sacrifice you. You shall have your heart's choice, and I shall nurse my secret sorrow." Burp! Where's my Tums?

Wendell Sheehan, a man about school, when no other men are here, seems to be quite a Romeo at Decatur, Indiana. Of course, many people think Wendell writes the letters of which he is the recipient, and that he mails them from Decatur. Well, anyway, if he does, we must say that he knows the adjectives used to describe nice men.

Louise Maddox, who spends most of her spare time at the City Meat Market, was seen carrying a string of weiners around. It is rumored that the proprietor is putting everything away from now on, especially when he hears the clank clank of Louise's clod-hoppers.

Paul Painter, who is of the "slow but sure" type, in everything but driving a car and in basketball, seems to be doing all his wooing with "Shanks' mules". The inhabitants of our fair village are very grateful for this, as Paul seems to have had the fair sex hypnotized, hysterical, and almost murdered with his fast driving for the past few years.

Meribel Dickison, who wears number 9 shoes, seems to be Pauline Spaulding's inspiration. You know, all her poems start out with, "By the sounds from the door that is open, I hear the patter of little feet." Clump! Clump! Here comes Marybelle.

Lola Salway appears very sad as Commencement day draws near, for that will mean farewell to Ralph. The tall dark and handsome gentleman whose heart no Senior female could move! Did those Freshies show us!

Jean Strickler, a one man's woman, certainly knows what to do and how to do it. There is only one way to escape, Paul, and that's to marry her.

Mr. Berl B. Blauvelt, our history instructor, has requested that we students check our colds before entering his history class. Who would think that our country was founded on freedom of—, etc.?

Ferne Franz, who is engaged and will become Mrs. Francis Lapham sometime after graduation, says her biggest desire is to bring the United States fame by having quints. If fortune should smile on Ferne and bless her with such, she has selected the following names: Opal, Mildred, Leora, Gladys, and Lora. Yes folks, all Ferne's favorite teachers' names. If they should be boys, they will be christened: Berl, Ervin, Jacob, George, and Maurice.

Miss. Helen Crabill, a well known young lady (?) who thinks she possesses, that most valuable and rare characteristic, "it", plans on selling it to the United States government to back paper money with in the future. Rah! Yea! Prosperity is sure to come now!

Well, folks, the night oil is rapidly diminishing. Soon the flame will flicker, and then slowly die out. Therefore, this column must end, but may its memories linger on.

After reading this, I hope you have gathered that:

There's so much good in the worst of us
And so much bad in the best of us
That it belittles all of us
To talk about the rest of us.

THANK YOU AND GOOD-BYE

By Joan Quinlan

Four years of endeavor, of toil and study "amid the dust of books" in pursuit of knowledge has brought us to this hour, not only with the satisfaction that we have completed the prescribed course of study, but also that these years have developed friendships through pleasant associations; friendships which shall endure for time and eternity; friendships of classmates and members of the High School. Friendships of teachers and parents. What knowledge we have acquired shall at all times be surrounded with sincere appreciation, but these friendships shall be treasured as the most beautiful pictures in the memory of a life time.

We are cognizant of the fact that we are beneficiaries of a kind and generous public for the support of our school. So to the patron tax-payers of this community we give our grateful thanks, and promise that their investment will not have been made in vain, but that we shall strive to live and act in such a manner, that the communities where we shall cast our lots shall receive from us benefits even in excess of the amount of money required to bring us to this Commencement Exercise.

To all our teachers, who have been so faithful to our higher instincts, who have worked with the spirits of missionaries, so that we might elevate ourselves in the scale of society, and to a greater scale of usefulness in our various vocations, we can no more than say your efforts are like letters on tablets of steel: they are fixed so everlastingly and indelibly in our lives. We know that occasions have risen which would bear evidence that your good efforts were lost on the desert air, but not so, for at this moment we are so much a part of you that a "good-bye" is like saying it to ourselves; but, nevertheless, to you, our teachers we bid farewell and may you some day receive your just reward.

To our parents who have made the greatest sacrifices for us, we know that it is absolutely outside the limits of the possible to repay you for your perfect interest in our welfare and for the labour and sacrifices made for us. We wish to thank you and promise that we shall ever labor with an eye single to the achievement of your dreams.

This is perhaps both the most opportune and inopportune moment in our school life. For four years our paths have run parallel and toward the goal which we will have reached by April 27. We look out upon the world with our hearts and minds filled with high ideals and aims. Our success in the fulfillment of these aims will be based upon our own initiative, talent and ambition.

And now, just before closing, may I have the pleasure of wishing my fellow classmates all the success and luck they may obtain in their chosen fields or vocations?

When your nose itches, that's a sign that company is coming, but when your head itches it's a sign that company has arrived.

Celebrating the Life of

Helen K. Marquart

The LORD is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He makes me to lie down in green pastures;
He leads me beside the still waters.
He restores my soul;
He leads me in the paths of righteousness
For His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death,
I will fear no evil; For You are with me;
Your rod and Your staff, they comfort me.
You prepare a table before me in
the presence of my enemies;
You anoint my head with oil;
My cup runs over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me
All the days of my life;
And I will dwell in the house of the LORD
Forever.

Dear Helen:

By this time you have probably read details of Floy'd death and arrangements. Maybe Maxine picked up the little pamphlet at the mortuary for you. We met her leaving about same time we arrived so had short visit with her and husband. Very glad it happened to work out that way. Esther took me and then we had met her daughter and husband for our lunch at Bob Evans in Auburn. It all worked out well but the long ride was hard on my feet and legs, sitting so long.

I made copies of this information and mailed to all of Floyd's nieces and nephews and the few cousins still living. Eva said she would send me a few copies of obituary in Waterloo paper and with Floyd's picture. I'm looking forward to receiving this soon. Maybe you had it in your paper. This copy was in the Ft. Wayne paper which I located here in our apt. bldg. One resident gets that paper. I'll see that Ruth gets the one Eva sends.

Ruth is having lots of pain in her left leg and surgery did not cure that pain. However, her back pains have improved as result of surgery. Arthritis is still with her. ??

We are getting rainy weather which is better than snow and ice. Glad weather was suitable for Floyd's burial,etc. Keep in touch.

Hope I.B. is doing better. Love,

Former Waterloo doctor, coroner, lawmaker dies

Heirs of Helen Marquart

Re: Estate of Helen Klinker Marquart

Dear Heirs of the Helen Klinker Marquart Estate:

As attorney for the Helen Klinker Marquart estate, please be advised that you will be receiving, or have already received, from the Clerk's office a notice in reference to the opening of this estate.

I have enclosed herein a copy of the first two pages of the Will, which indicates the individuals and the percentage bequest. As you can see, there are substantial heirs, especially item 31 where all remaining nieces and nephews not listed above are set forth. The estate will need three months to allow any and all claims to be filed, and at that point in time we should be in a position to determine the net estate from which distribution can be made.

For your initial information, the estate, according to my calculations, is approximately $200,000.00.

I look forward to working with the personal representatives to bring this matter to early closure.

Under Indiana law, effective January 1, 2013, there will be no inheritance tax due by any of you as a result of the funds you receive.

Very Truly Yours

NOTICE OF UNSUPERVISED ADMINISTRATION TO BE MAILED TO A DISTRIBUTEE

Notice is hereby given that on the _____ day of_____, 2013, Margaret Clouser and Harold Ohler, were appointed as personal representatives of the estate of Helen Klinker Marquart, who died on the 30th day of May, 2013, leaving a will. The estate will be administered without court supervision.

As an heir, devisee, or legatee of the estate (a "distributee"), you are advised of the following information:

(1) The personal representative has the authority to take actions concerning the estate without first consulting you.

(2) The personal representative may be serving without posting a bond with the court. You have the right to petition the court to set a bond for your protection. You also have the right to petition the court to remove a corporate personal representative not later than thirty (30) days after this notice if the ownership or control of the corporate personal representative has changed since the execution of the decedent's will.

(3) The personal representative will not obtain court approval of any action, including the amount of attorney's or personal representative's fees.

(4) Within two (2) months after the appointment of the personal representative, the personal representative must prepare an inventory of the estate's assets. You have the right to request and receive a copy of this inventory from the personal representative. However, if you do not participate in the residue of the estate and receive only a specific bequest in money or personal property that will be paid, you are entitled only to the information concerning your specific bequest and not to the assets of the estate as a whole.

(5) The personal representative is required to furnish you with a copy of the closing statement that will be filed with the court and, if your interests are affected, with a full account in writing of the administration of the estate.

(6) You must file an objection to the closing statement within three (3) months after the closing statement is filed with the court if you want the court to consider your objection.

(7) If an objection to the closing statement is not filed with the court within three (3) months after the filing of the closing statement, the estate is closed and the court does not have a duty to audit or make an inquiry.

IF, AT ANY TIME BEFORE THE ESTATE IS CLOSED, YOU HAVE REASON TO BELIEVE THAT THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE ESTATE SHOULD BE SUPERVISED BY THE COURT, YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO PETITION THE COURT FOR SUPERVISED ADMINISTRATION. IF YOU DO NOT UNDERSTAND THIS NOTICE, YOU SHOULD ASK YOUR ATTORNEY TO EXPLAIN IT TO YOU.

Heirs of the Estate of
Helen Klinker Marquart

Dear Heirs:

We are now at the point that we can make distribution and begin the closing out of the estate of Helen Klinker Marquart. I've enclosed herein a check which has been written by Margaret and Harold as personal representatives of the estate. The check should correspond to the amount disclosed on the distribution sheet attached.

For your purposes and information, please be advised that this distribution is not considered as taxable income to you. You will not be receiving any further documentation from our office in this regards unless requested. If anyone has any questions, please direct those questions to my office. I want to thank you for your patience in this regards and want to reiterate again that we are bringing this estate to an early close due to the time and effort that Margaret and Harold have put in.

Best wishes to everyone for the upcoming holiday season.

Very truly yours,

Celebrating the Life of

Helen K. Marquart

The LORD is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He makes me to lie down in green pastures;
He leads me beside the still waters.
He restores my soul;
He leads me in the paths of righteousness
For His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death,
I will fear no evil; For You are with me;
Your rod and Your staff, they comfort me.
You prepare a table before me in
the presence of my enemies;
You anoint my head with oil;
My cup runs over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me
All the days of my life;
And I will dwell in the house of the LORD
Forever.

Psalm 23
